

“Split the Lark – and you’ll find the Music...”

- Emily Dickinson

Los Angeles-based singer-songwriter, Lisa Finnie, has been described by the LA Weekly as a “torch-hillbilly enchantesse” with “hip-chick atmospherics”. Incorporating elements of blues, jazz, folk and traditional country, Finnie sings songs of love and loss, and always with a groove. Her album of original material is available on Finnie’s own Chirp Records and features the stellar accompaniment of some of Los Angeles’ finest live and session musicians. Finnie and Friends are available for club dates, private parties, festivals and tours.

“Engaging singer who does it her way (meaning interesting, song-redefining arrangements and atmospheric vocals)...”

Jonny Whiteside, LA Weekly

“There’s a jazzy spark to her performances but she’s closer to Dinah Washington or Toni Price than, say, Diana Krall...”

Bliss, Pasadena Weekly

“A favorite in the local folk/Americana circle, [Finnie] has a deep, dark and rich voice that she uses to tackle a variety of material...”

Paul Andersen, Entertainment Today

“Finnie’s style, with a slight bluesy intonation, [works] well across the board on her selection of powerful songs...”

Harvey Barkan, L.A. Jazz Scene

“Finnie and friends have a way of washing over you without you even realizing it...It’s smooooth. Perfect for deck parties and drinking after hours...”

Frank Gutch, Jr., Folk and Music Exchange
